ION Systems, Inc. – Fact Sheet

Founded	August, 1992, to revolutionize the way the world reads on-screen
Headquarters	107 Mississippi Avenue, Crystal City, MO 63019
Company Description	ION Systems, Inc. is a global innovator in usability relationship management (URM) empowering people to easily access and use digital information. A privately-held software development company, ION Systems develops scalable, integrated solutions that powers companies, educational and government institutions to build and enhance relationships with their consumers of content. ION's suite of products automatically and intelligently enhances a person's ability to customize their experience of digital content regardless of their device, platform or physical challenge.
Solution Overview	Electronic content publishers continue to struggle with multiple solutions and vendors to address their audience's various consumption requirements. Anyone with Internet experience has suffered through the discomfort of reading documents using Adobe Acrobat: full-page images that require extensive scrolling and has the confusing issue of new pages jumping up to replace their predecessor before the last lines of the previous page are read. ION's strategy is to provide a complete solution addressing content syndication, multiple format rendering, and usability. The solutions that ION designed support today's needs and anticipate tomorrow's requirements. ION's target customer is a digital content provider who wants to enhance the company's relationship with the content consumer via its ability to customize and personalize the usability of that content.
Products	Intellectual property assets: ION's patented reading interface methodology is core to all ION products. eMonocle™: an XML interface technology facilitating efficient reading of complex content for all readers. Web Eyes™: a browser plug-in that transforms Web pages on the fly into readable and usable content that complies with Section 508 and the Americans with Disabilities Act. GalaxyLibrary™: an end-to-end publishing and distribution system that bridges and serves the electronic and print worlds.
